To the Democratic Voters of the City of Paris.

The election of all county officers will be held on November 8. The Republicans have seen fit to nominate candidates for the offices of sheriff, circuit court clerk, county court clerk and jailer. In the event that all Democratic votes are cast, there will be no difficulty in defeating them. However, should a very large number fail to vote, the Republicans can win. No one living in the city of Paris can vote in this election, nor in any other election held within the next year, unless he or she registers next Tuesday. It is necessary that you register and see that your neighbor registers, unless you prefer to see the Republicans in power in Bourbon county. There may also be other important elections held within the next year and unless you register next Tuesday, you will be prevented from voting then.

Mrs. G. W. Bacon gave a kaddiecheef shower this afternoon at her home on Cypress street, in honor of Miss Patsy Clark, bride-elect. The color scheme, rose, and white, was carried out in flowers, the center bouquet being a rustic basket of Sunrise flowers by Miss Lelia Clark. BOURBON CLUB CONSOLIDATED

North Middletown Woman Resigns After Holding Presidency of Organization for Five Years

ANNUAL REPORT IS READ

[Special to The Herald]

NORTH MIDDLETOWN, Ky., Oct. 1.—The Mothers' Club of North Middletown closed another successful year's work Friday afternoon, meeting with Miss Irene Lockhart of Paris. The club's annual report was read by the secretary and treasurer.

The meeting marked the retirement of Mrs. Magnus E. Rash, who was the club's organizer and its leader for five successive years. At this time also the Mother's Club was consolidated with the Woman's Club as the community service department.

The annual report of 1920-1921 shows that the club opened last September as a federated club, with an enrollment of 31 members. The year's work consisted of twelve miscellaneous programs. Besides supporting a free kindergarten, as it had done for five years, the club started a reserved library in the graded school, put in the school children and a medical examination by a graduate Red Cross nurse, assisted the school board in seeing that the drinking water was made pure, and that the children had some playground equipment.

Last October the club gave the school children a historical pilgrimage to Governor Metcalfe's home, and the battle ground of Blue Lick, paying all their expenses. Historians who spoke on this occasion were Mrs. W. T. Lafferty, Lexington; Mrs. Samuel H. Shine, Louisville, and Miss Lizzie Grimes, Paris.

In the same month the club women had with them Mrs. Desha Breckinridge, who addressed them and a large audience on the "Responsibility of the New Voter." To the club members her memory will forever last as an influential guide.

On November 25 a community Thanksgiving dinner was served. Christmas, a community tree was given for 250 children at the graded school. In January the public was given a free musical program by the Glee Club of the University of Kentucky, the club paying all expenses and serving them to supper.

In February the boys home-craft exhibit was given at the school with awarding of three prizes, followed by a lecture on "Vocational Education" by Mr. Hacker, Paris Commercial Club secretary.

In March Mrs. Frank Lowery, of Paris, gave a paper on "Pottery" to the club, followed by a child's tea. April brought Miss Anna Fleming, of Berea College, with her address on "Fireside Industries" and her exhibit of mountain handwork. Also the exhibit of the club members' handwork, with a luncheon at the home of the president. In May the school girls' sewing exhibit was held, in which prizes were awarded for every grade. Field day for the junior department was observed, but the outdoor program was postponed until August. At that time the pageant director, Mrs. Rash, and music director, Mrs. Tobie Young, gave a delightful entertainment.

The average attendance at all the meetings was 178! The club members raised and gave more than $600 as a benefit to the children and the community, with no debt left on hand. Their report was one of the best at the state convention at Danville last May.

PIKEVILLE, Ky., October 1.—Influenced, apparently, by the defendant's youth a jury trying Frank Chapman for the murder of John Mowney, his rival for the hand of Emma Smith in the presence of the girl upon the night of August 13, found him guilty of manslaughter Friday and sentenced him to five years in prison.

Finding Mowney there when he went to call upon the girl, Chapman demanded that the girl decide whom she would marry. "I do not know that I will marry either of you," she replied. Chapman then drew a pistol and shot Mowney three times.
